LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

DODGE CITY, SATURDAY, MAR. 30, '95

Mr. D. Shady arrived from the East last Wednesday.

Mr. J. W. Carter, who has charge of Fraser's herd, was in the city this week.

It is rumored that gold has been discovered at the Double Mountains, Texas.

James Evans came in from his herd last Monday.

Mr. A. H. Boyd has 120 acres of wheat growing on his farm near Larned.

A valuable horse belonging to Mr. Sam Capaldi this week from eating loco weed

FOR SALE—A span of large ponies. Inquire at this office.

The tramps made an attack on Fort Lodge last week, but were repulsed by the Military and driven from the post.

Mr. A. R. Webster contemplates erecting a brick building north of the "Old House" saloon.

A notice to meat contractors soliciting proposals for supplying Military posts, appears in this paper.

Eggs are selling at 12-13 cents per dozen; butter 20 cents per pound; lard 15 cents per pound.

Wm. Ford, the great nursery and hedge man of Barton county made a sale this week of $1,100 worth of hedge plants to two men.

Two brothers of Mr. J. C. Jones, who lives near Olathe, were in the city this week prospecting. They took land northwest of Dodge.

Mr. J. W. Wizenstein writes from Colorado Springs that he is enjoying the good things of this life to an amazing extent.
As a beverage he takes iron water.

MR. MURRAY WEAK, of Spearville, paid Dodge City a short visit last Sunday. He reports his vicinity rapidly increasing in population and improvement.

A large congregation attended Church last Sunday evening. The sermon was very interesting, as was also the discussion on the subject of the small boys in the back seats.

MR. JAMES LANGTON is building up an extensive trade at the Fort Dodge Sulfur store. Everything in the line of general merchandise is kept, and an air of prosperity prevails throughout the establishment.

Engineer Tarsney, of the A. T. & S. F., with whom many of our readers are acquainted, has retired from engineering and accepted a position as emigrant agent.
He will lecture on Kansas throughout the east. As a speaker he is no slouch.

Mr. A. Stealy, who has been hunting and curing meat on the range with Mr.
Dubbs all winter, arrived in the city last Tuesday. He and Mr. Dubbs had splendid luck, considering the scarcity of buffalo, and have now ready for the market 50,000 pounds of meat. They have also nearly 30,000 hides. Mr. Dubbs will not be in for about a month. Mrs. Dubbs and her children arrived on Wednesday.

M. W., better known to the "boys" as "Mike" Sutton of Dodge City, County Attorney of Ford county, visited our city last Monday. Mike is a good fat fellow with every pore filled with cleverness, good sense and humor, and everything requisite to make a pleasant and agreeable visitor. By the way, he is one of the best lawyers that "chin" courts in this country. —(Larned Enterprise.)

ARRIVED FROM TEXAS.

Mr. A. H. Johnson, General stock Agent of the A. T. & S. F. Road, arrived from Texas last Sunday, and reports everything favorable for a large cattle trade.
Nearly all the cattle have started up the trail. Mr. Johnson went from here to Kinsey, where he intends to build stock yards for the accommodation of the stock men south of that place who have been holding wintered cattle.

FORT RENO DRAMATISTS.

Some one sends us a programme of an entertainment given by the Fort Reno Dramatic Club, March 18th. Members: J.
B. Gatwood, Geo. Emerson and Geo.
Cumming are the managers. The names of the persons taking part in the dances and plays are Geo. Emerson, Mrs. Geo.
Emerson, John Duff, M. Sullivan, J. W.
Proctor, Owen O'Neil and Thomas Walser.
From the tasty programme we judge they have considerable style about them.

IN THE CLOTHING BUSINESS.

We are daily expecting to hear of some one starting a second-hand clothing store somewhere along this road. Last Friday week while Mr. James Langton of Fort Dodge, was attending a social hop in this city his hired man appropriated all the clothing he could find about his master's apartments, consisting of three or four suits, about a dozen shirts, a lot of underwear, and a new forty-five dollar overcoat belonging to Mr. Tatum. He also took a rifle to protect himself from tramps. With this outfit he has emigrated for parts unknown.

BEECHER ON SOCIETY.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher is lecturing in the principal cities of the West. His subject is the "Wastes and Burdens of Society." The following is a synopsis of the lecture.

He commented on the average length of human life, which is about 35 years, and said that any man of good constitution and healthy parents ought to be ashamed to die before eighty.

He claimed that the great majority of sick cases have their origin in deficient sanitary measures. He read in English books on hygiene some instructive figures which showed that in a neighborhood of a penitentiary the death rate was 17 in the 1,000, while inside the prison where sanitary rules were enforced the death rate was only 3 in 1,000—a good argument for making the penitentiary a desirable place to live in. In New York city treatment houses the death rate among the poorer classes is 36 to the 1,000, while among those who live in good locations the deaths are only 18 per annum to every 1,000 people.

He said that during an experience of forty years in the pulpit and on the platform he could count on his fingers all the places he had spoken in that were fit to hold an audience in the sense of proper ventilation. He thought that wealth and power could take care of themselves, but the poor and helpless needed looking after. He believed in putting the screws to society and lifting it up. The weak should be lifted up by the powerful. The powerful should never attempt to go up without taking the bottom along with them. The byways as well as the highways of life should be kept clean.

He described a family poisoned by the malarial genius in the kitchen reaching the parlor.
The child dies first, and then the father, and the minister preaching the funeral sermon would say, "This is the hand of Providence," while God knew all the time it was only the odor of rotten onions and stinking cabbage.

Men who are of use to society should be sent up by a popular current, and when their usefulness has ceased they ought to be sent down by another current. Society should never be stagnant. There ought to be a constant filling and emptying of the cuppers. Send a man up till, take him down empty. There is always this kind of movement in society. Two generations show it. The father makes money. The son spends it. The son goes to work again.

In speaking of the dissensions of the different sects he said they wasted more hatred on each other than on the common enemy.

Even the temperance movement, grand as was its origin and object, has half a dozen factions all at daggers drawn with each other. There was nothing so scarce on this earth as peace and no calender of crime was blacker than that of the churches warring on each other in days gone by. If there had been nothing but the external church, religion would have gone over the dam long years ago. The churches wasted most of their force in battling one against the other.

He commented rather severely on the number of professional men who were unfit for their chosen work.

He thought the courts of justice bred infinite lying. Witnesses were sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and when the man began to tell the truth he was blockaded by a lawyer who said "Stop sir; we want none of that." He preceeds again and is stopped by the other lawyer, and so is persecuted until he contradicts himself out of very confusion and leaves the stand in deep doubt whether he is a knave or a fool or a combination of the two. And yet he went on the witness stand resolved to tell the truth.

He had predicted the era of universal peace, and since six of the bloodiest wars that had ever desolated mankind had been waged. Never was mankind so eager for blood in the history of the world. Within a few years Europe had become a camp and this would last until some day the down-trodden masses would arise and overthrow their oppressors, and then his lips would not utter the prayer "God save the throne," but would rather say "God save the people."

He adhered to the abominable cant which prated of the rapid progress of Christianity and civilization, when the world was in arms and animalism or brute force swayed the destinies of mankind.

OFFICIAL.

A called meeting of the Board of County Commissioners was held at the County Clerk's office on Thursday, March 21st.

On motion of A. J. Prescott C. M. Brown and A. H. Boyd were appointed to assist the Probate Judge in the examination of the books and accounts of the County Treasurer and to count the funds on hand.

On motion Lester Marks and John Newton were appointed to assist the Sup't. of Public Instruction in the examination of applicants for teacher's certificates.

On motion Henry Neiss was appointed Township Treasurer to fill vacancy in Dodge Township.

JOHN B. MEANS,
County Clerk.

RELIEF OF THE GERMAINE SISTERS.

The Senate committee on Indian affairs has agreed to report favorably the House resolution for the relief of the Germaine sisters. The resolution directs the Secretary of the Interior to reserve from the annuities due the Cheyenne Indians $5,000 for each of the girls.

GOOD RESULTS.

Are always pleasant to contemplate, as every dyspeptic sufferer who uses Father's Ginger Tonic will attest. To obtain from this remedy the gratifying relief when distressed with Headache, Low spirits, Nervousness, Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Liver Disorders, Constipation, Pain in the Stomach, Heartburn, Cramps, etc., is a pleasant experience that surpasses all less than it comforts. Another remarkable feature of this remedy is its powerful aperient action on the skin and mucous surfaces of the throat and lungs by which it unfailingly cures the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Throat. It cures in a wonderfully short time, removes all sore-ness from the lungs, and protects the throat from inflammation. Buy a bottle from your druggist, H. J. FRINGER, or a sample box at home, and test its merits.
